

MARY BETH MARSDEN

Mary Beth Marsden is a Baltimore area artist who began painting full-time after leaving an Emmy award winning career in broadcast journalism.

From 1988 until 2010, Mary Beth was the evening news anchor for WMAR-TV, Channel 2. She later hosted a news and interview program for WBAL1090. MB still keeps her hand in broadcasting, but mostly devotes her time to family and art.

Monument Sotheby's International Realty hosted Mary Beth's first group art show in 2017 and since that time she has had several solo exhibits. Her paintings can be found in homes and businesses from Georgia to Maine.

Mary Beth began painting when she was 10 years old and still creates with acrylic paints, inks and other forms of mixed media. Her subject matter ranges widely from contemporary abstract to landscapes, florals, and beach scenes. She enjoys pivoting from one painting to the next while switching up color palette and canvas size.

"There is so much joy in the process of creating art and I feel super blessed that I've been able to find my love of painting again at just the right time in my life."

Mary Beth is also an "autism mom" and is devoted to the cause of creating a more inclusive and understanding world for all. She has been able to incorporate her art into fundraising opportunities for Baltimore area autism organizations and programs. She has produced several videos about autism on the YouTube channel "Real Look Autism"
